DETAILED ACTION

Specification

1. The disclosure is objected to because of the following informalities: The reference to Fig. 6 on line 30 of page 7 is inappropriate since there are only five figures. For examination purposes, it is assumed that the reference is to Fig. 5.

Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 1-7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Grover et al. U.S. Patent 5,818,437.

Referring to claims 1 and 7, Grover et al. teach a device and software application comprising an ambiguous first data input system configured to associate a first user input with a plurality of potential data (the set of nine data keys representing a plurality of letters and symbols yielding a plurality of matches for the entered keystroke) (column 1, lines 46-55, column 3, lines 66-67, column 4, lines 34-40 and Figure 1), a second data input system independent from the first data input system receiving a second user input (receiving user input via moving the cursor or highlight bar between the list of potential data with the "select key", which is a system level input key that is different from the set of data keys) (column 1, lines 55-58, column 4, lines 6-9 and 40-43), and a processing unit coupled to the first and second input systems for selecting one of the plurality of potential data from the second user input (the user selects one of the plurality of potential data using the "select" key 104 shown in Figure 1 and the processing unit of the portable computer subsequently inserts and displays the selected word in display area 101) (column 1, lines 55-58, column 4, lines 43-45 and Figure 2) .

Referring to claim 2, Grover et al. teach a display coupled to the processing unit and configured to display the selected potential data (display 602 shown in Figure 2) (column 3, lines 58-63).

Referring to claim 3, Grover et al. teach the first data input system comprises a real or virtual keyboard configured to associate a specific keystroke with a plurality of graphical characters (keypad with nine data keys, each associated with a plurality of letters and symbols) (column 1, lines 46-47, column 3, lines 66-67 and column 4, lines 34-37).

Referring to claim 4, Grover et al. teach the first data input system comprises a touch-sensitive screen (column 3, lines 58-63 and Figure 2).

Referring to claim 5, Grover et al. teach the second data input system is a stylus input system or a keystroke input system (the user can select the desired word from the word selection list using the keystroke input of the "select key" 104 on the touch-sensitive display) (column 1, lines 55-58, column 4, lines 43-45, column 9, lines 19-25 and Figure 1).

Referring to claim 6, Grover et al. teach the processing unit further determines the selected data based on a dictionary database internally or remotely accessed (the processor processes the keystroke sequence with a dictionary) (column 1, lines 51-55).

3. The prior art made of record on form PTO-892 and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Applicant is required under 37 C.F.R. § 1.111(c) to consider these references fully when responding to this action. The documents cited therein teach similar methods of disambiguating user input.
